It Takes More Than Daylight Savings to Redeem the Time

August 15 — 12th Sunday after Pentecost
Sermon Title: "Wake Up! Arise!" by Elizabeth Young
Scripture: John 6:58; Ephesians 5:14b-16

Often we seem confronted with unexpected events, too many decisions to be made quickly, new time schedules, shifting protocols, puzzling statements from other people, conflicting "data," or the confusing overwhelming demands of everyday existence. Everybody wants us to "wake up" to something. What voices do we listen to? Can we trust our own perceptions of "reality"? How are we expected to make good decisions? Where will the next sources come from that claim to shed light on the confusion or darkness? What if we don't even realize that it's dark? Are we awake, or are we just sleep-walking? Have we wasted too much time? Did we go to bed too late – will we get up in time? Come, find love and sure leadership in God's Word. Be comforted that you are waking up to His promises which will not shift under your feet nor leave you to struggle alone.
